

Dr Elena Provenzano is Lead Breast Histopathologist for the Cambridge Breast Unit at Addenbrooke's Hospital. Her current role combines clinical work and research, with key interests in the molecular taxonomy of breast cancer and assessment of tumour response to neoadjuvant therapy. She has a longstanding involvement with the breast screening programme and is the regional NHS BSP Pathology Professional Clinical Advisor, and is a member of U.K. National Coordinating Committee for Breast Pathology and the NHS BSP Research Advisory Council.